WOOL BILL OF MAJORITY CLASSIFIED AS ILLOGICAL

Representative Rucker of Colorado, Democrat, Among Those Who Oppose It.

The first break in the solid democratic ranks behind the wool tariff revision bill was disclosed in the House yesterday, when Representative Rucker, democrat, of Colorado, inveighed against the measure. Mr. Rucker's state there is a considerable sheep industry and he foretold ruin for the Colorado sheep owners if the proposed bill became a law. He denounced as fallacious the argument that the American sheep owner would be given sufficient protection to insure his control of the home market, and cited figures intended to prove that Australia and South America would dominate the markets of the world.

Vote Expected Tomorrow.

When the bill was taken up yesterday the House agreed to a proposal of Majority Leader Underwood that a vote be taken tomorrow. On that day there will be two hours' general debate, to be followed by five-minute speeches on amendments. Mr. Underwood sought, but failed, to gain consent to have limited to two hours the period in which amendments could be made.

In attacking the bill Representative Mondell of Wyoming, republican, said the report accompanying the democratic bill was a garbled mass of misstatements. "The man who wrote that," he said, "did not know what he was writing about, and the fourteen democratic members of the ways and means committee who signed it ought to be ashamed of themselves."

Bill Regarded as Indefensible. Representative Longworth of Ohio, republican, condemned the democratic wool bill as indefensible and said that if the democrats felt that free sugar was proper they should be consistent and advocate free wool.

"If," he said, pointing to Chairman Underwood, "you must not tax a man's belly, by what conceivable mental process can we reconcile our conscience to a tax on his back and legs? Have you the horizon the homely truths set forth in the classic verse: 'You may live without poetry, music or art; You may live without conscience; you may live without heart; You may live without kin, cousins, uncles or aunts; But civilized man cannot live without pants.'"

An Illogical Program.

Mr. Longworth contended that the entire democratic program was illogical. He pointed to the striking off of $600,000 by lifting the tax on sugar, while the democratic party clung to the $200,000,000 attached to the wool bill.

"You offer a consumer a gift with one hand," he charged, "but you take it away with the other."

LIFE OF PRESENT DAY IN PERSIA DESCRIBED

Conditions Discussed by Mirza Ali Kuli Khan in University Club Lecture.

"Persia, the Land of Literature and Art," was the subject of an address delivered before the University Club last night by Mirza Ali Kuli Khan, chargé d'affaires of Persia in Washington. He gave an account of the life today in Persia, pointing out in particular the loss of the beautiful, which is exemplified in every-day affairs in Persia.

Mirza Ali Kuli Khan did not attempt to discuss the present political conditions in his native land, but declared that the spirit of hope lives in the Arab, notwithstanding the difficulties which the Persian government has encountered, and that the constitutional government in its few years of existence, has done much.

Land Without Railroads.

Persia is today a land without railroads, a fact which Mirza Ali Kuli Khan deplored, since it had prevented the rapid spread of the practical western civilization which is needed to aid in the development of the resources of the land, which he declared to be very great, both mineral and agricultural. All the traveling is done with horses and mules. The horses are superior to the Arab horses, he said, in strength and endurance. Traveling in Persia under these conditions is not to be lightly entered upon, he said. Every detail must be carefully provided for.

The patriarchal form of government is to be found in the Persian family. Marriage is a matter of very great importance, and great care is taken by the parents of the young men and young women in selecting partners for them. Mirza Ali Kuli Khan said that there was a class of professional matchmakers—women who married their own sons to learn about the eligible young women and their families and report on them to the families who had sons to marry off.

TO SELECT ROOSEVELT MEN.

Convention Is Called to Meet at Birmingham, Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 30.—At a meeting here today, over which J. O. Thompson presided, a republican state convention was called to meet in Birmingham May 11, at which time delegates favoring the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for the presidency of the United States will be selected.

The action taken today is based on the contention that the present Alabama republican organization, headed by Pope Louis as chairman, is illegal. It is claimed that the republican national executive committee made this ruling on the ground that the present organization was formed before the term of its preceding organization, of which J. O. Thompson was chairman, expired.

PRIMARY BILL PASSED.

Presidential Measure Is Adopted at Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 31.—In the closing hours of the biennial session of the legislature a republican primary bill was passed. The bill provides that the vote on the presidential nomination shall be taken by counties and legislative districts in Baltimore city, and that the selection be made by a state convention, which shall select the delegates to the national convention.

REYNARD GETS AWAY

Fox Hounds Catch Scent and "Lose" Party of Riders.

HOT PURSUIT AFTER PACK

Rock Creek Hunt Club Members Cover About Ten Miles.

MOTION PICTURES ARE TAKEN

Photographers Chase Hunters in Automobiles and Snap Them Taking the "Jumps."

With bright skies overhead and the distant baying of hounds urging them onward on a ten-mile chase of an invisible reynard, twenty-five or thirty members of the newly organized Rock Creek Hunt Club held a lively drag hunt yesterday afternoon, through the woods and dales in the vicinity of Rock Creek Park, in the vicinity of Pierce's mill.

Despite the fact that the pack of trained pedigree fox hounds belonging to Andrew J. Cummings, about thirty-five in all, caught the scent of the drag-bag before the party had fully assembled at the mill and "lost" themselves to the hounds, the chase set off in hot chase and pursued the pack. Maj. Henry T. Allen, whose pack of six hounds joined the others, was among those who gave chase to the fleeing hounds.

Motion Picture Men on Hand.

While the riders were dashing up the pack in the chase, a party of motion picture photographers chased after them in automobiles and "snapped" them at conspicuous moments. For a time it seemed the hunters were being hunted, but the picture men soon had to give up the chase, and content themselves with waiting patiently at some bend in the road for a dozen riders or more to pass again. It was agreed to assemble at Pierce's mill at about 6 o'clock, and by that time twenty-five or thirty members of the club were impatiently waiting for the last arrival.

Miss Taft Not Present. Immediately every hound, with the exception of five puppies, tore down the road with the scent of the drag-bag in their nostrils. It was impossible to follow the pack, and the riders were left to guess where the reynard was. The party had arrived there the night before, and from time to time a faint bay would reach the ears of the party, and that was the only sign they caught of the pack during the entire hunt.

However, the five puppies proved good hunters, and the party, headed by Maj. Allen and Mr. Cummings, attempted to follow the pack, despite the wet and soggy ground. They took the road and covered the mill, thence to the "jumps," and out across "over the hills and far away." The woods resounded merrily as the bugle notes answered the distant baying of the hounds, and after covering about

GOVERNMENT FILES SUIT AGAINST SHIP COMPANIES

Monopoly of Trade Between United States and Asiatic Countries Charged.

NEW YORK, March 30.—As another step in the federal government's campaign against alleged combinations of steamship interests to control ocean shipping, the Department of Justice filed in the United States district court here today a civil bill against several big companies carrying freight between the United States and the far east by way of the Suez canal, accusing them of violating the Sherman anti-trust law. The suit is regarded as one of the most important moves yet made by the government against the so-called shipping trust which Congress is about to investigate.

It is alleged that by agreements, pools, cartels and combinations, and conspiring to restrain trade, the companies have acquired a complete monopoly of the trade between the United States and the Philippines, Japan, China and other Asiatic countries, discouraged and prevented the establishment of other regular lines and practically destroyed tramp tonnage.

Injunctions Are Sought.

The government seeks a series of injunctions forbidding this alleged conspiracy and combination, and compelling a restoration of competition among all the companies. The court is asked to prevent any of the ships of the defendants from entering or clearing New York or any other American port as long as the alleged violations of law continue. Pending the determination of the suit, the Attorney General requests the issuance of temporary injunctions prohibiting the offenses which he charges.

While the alleged agreements and some of the conferences were made or held abroad, it is said the government relies upon the Supreme Court's decision in cases of this kind to justify the phase of the situation. The Supreme Court held that while the agreements of the shipping companies to combine their tonnage were made in Great Britain, they were carried out in this country, and consequently were cognizable by American courts.

The government's petition was presented by United States District Attorney Wise and was signed by Attorney General Wickersham.
